

Livio De Chicchis is a technologist working in ENEA, in study, analysis and scenario unit. He deals with energy models and quantitative analysis on energy system, with a focus on energy policies. He is also involved in working groups and EU funded projects.

Energy engineer, in his previous working experience he was energy policy and market analyst, mainly dealing with energy efficiency in industrial and residential sector.