

Antonella Rocchi is a Ph.D. candidate at University of L'Aquila under the supervision of prof. Christian Celia. She also attended the University of Tartu (Estonia) as visiting Ph.D. student in 2023, where she worked in the Laboratory of Precision- and Nanomedicine under the supervision of prof. Tambet Teesalu. Her research activities are mainly focused on the development of innovative precision drug delivery systems for anticancer application.